Make a Summer Bucket List

With the summer months approaching and hopefully more sunshine in the forecast, take some time to be intentional about summer activities. This doesn't mean spending money on signing up for every summer camp available or whisking the family away on exotic trips – I am talking about remembering what things you liked to do during your childhood and help give those same ideas to your kids Because even though kids can be kids for the next few months, most of us adults won't skip a beat with our normal everyday work routines, so planning ahead for summer is key.

A friend of mine started a summer bucket list last year and I thought it was such a neat idea that I wanted to share. Get a piece of paper. As a family, sit down and think of what things would be fun to accomplish these next couple months. Some ideas could include: lemonade stands, having picnic dinners, family game night, go star gazing, build a fort, go to the park. Then as you complete, check them off the list! For more ideas, check out Pinterest or google "summer bucket list." Have fun!

NEW PARTNERSHIP

The District has partnered with Integrative Counseling Solutions to provide counseling services to our students district-wide. Referrals will be made through myself and Mrs. Allen at the MS/HS. If you feel your student could benefit from outside counseling services, please contact us. They do accept most insurances and counseling can continue through summer months.

K-2 Guidance

We will continue to focus on age-appropriate activities to promote friendship skills, confidence, and courage to be ourselves for the month of May in K-2 classes. We will also incorporate some of our meditation fun we had last month to help with stress of the final month!

It's been a pleasure working with your K-2 student this year in guidance classes!

3-5 Guidance

In upper elementary, we are focusing on growth mindset in 3rd and 4th grade. For 5th grade, we are going to incorporate interests and career units to help them begin to discover what type of career they can have with their growing talents and interests!

I look forward to working with your student next year, and will dearly miss our fifth grade students in guidance class!
